

What is the Saskatchewan Music Festival Association?

The Saskatchewan Music Festival Association (established in 1908) is committed to promoting music and spoken word by providing performance and educational opportunities in the Province of Saskatchewan. Local festivals are organized by volunteers and judged by qualified professional adjudicators.

Disciplines offered include accordion, voice, piano, guitar, harp, strings, woodwind, brass, percussion, organ, choir/school music including special education, multicultural, spoken word, small ensembles, as well as band and orchestral classes. Entrance is accessible to all ages, all ethnic groups and people of all religions across the province. If preferred, participants may enter in non-competitive classes for a performance opportunity and to receive feedback only.
